

The Business Model Canvas

Designed for:

Designed by:

Date:

Version:

Key Partners Who are our key partners? Which Key Resources are we acquiring from partners? Which Key Activities do partners perform? INTRODUCTION FOR LEARNERS Partnerships are a key element of the business model. They can be used to acquire key resources, perform key activities, and deliver value propositions. Partnerships can also be used to reduce the risk and uncertainty of particular resources and activities.	Key Activities What key activities do our Value Propositions require? Our Customer Channels? Customer Relationships? Revenue Streams? INTRODUCTION Key activities are the most important tasks that a company must perform to make its business model work. They are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships.	Value Propositions What value do we deliver to the customer? Which customer's problems are we helping to solve? What bundles of products and services are we offering to each Customer Segment? Which Customer Segments see the greatest value? INTRODUCTION Value propositions are the most important elements of the business model. They are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships. Value propositions are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships.	Customer Relationships What type of relationship does each of our Customer Segments expect us to establish and maintain with them? Which ones have we established? How are they integrated with the rest of our business model? How costly are they? INTRODUCTION Customer relationships are the most important elements of the business model. They are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships. Customer relationships are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships.	Customer Segments For whom are we creating value? Who are our most important customers? What segment: Market: Segment: Channel: Distribution: Value: Cost: Risk: Return: How do we create value?
Key Resources What key resources do our Value Propositions require? Our Customer Channels? Customer Relationships? Revenue Streams? INTRODUCTION Key resources are the most important tasks that a company must perform to make its business model work. They are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships.	Channels Through which Channels do our Customer Segments want to be reached? How are we reaching them now? How are our Channels integrated? Which ones work best? How are we integrating them with customer feedback? INTRODUCTION Channels are the most important elements of the business model. They are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships. Channels are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships.			Revenue Streams For what value are our customers really willing to pay? For what do they currently pay? How are they currently paying? How much does each Revenue Stream contribute to overall revenue? INTRODUCTION Revenue streams are the most important elements of the business model. They are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships. Revenue streams are the core competencies that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships.
Cost Structure What are the most important costs inherent in our business model? Which Key Resources are most expensive? Which Key Activities are most expensive? INTRODUCTION Cost structure is the most important element of the business model. It is the core competency that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships. Cost structure is the core competency that a company must have to deliver value propositions, reach customer channels, and maintain customer relationships.

DESIGNED BY: Business Model Foundry AG
The makers of Business Model Generation and Strategyzer

This work is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License. To view a copy of this license, visit: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/4.0/> or send a letter to Creative Commons, 171 Second Street, Suite 300, San Francisco, California, 94105, USA.

The Value Proposition Canvas

Value Proposition

Customer Segment

